

MARSH FARMERS BATTLE FLOOD

The men pictured above are some of the 600 who worked early Saturday morning to prevent a break-through at the north canal, bordering the rich Holland Marsh vegetable lands. They are standing on the dike road with water from the flooded canal on the right and marsh lands on the left. Left to right are K. Rpassy, Jack Weber, John Stelcz, in background, and Joe Wolfe. Rising flood waters are seen in the picture above, half-way across the road on top of the north dike with Holland Marsh gardens in the background. The land in the background is several feet below the level of the swollen canal in the foreground. Over 600 men battled the flood, piling sandbags at weak points like this for miles along the canal. Marsh Farmers Sandbag Dikes

Six hundred or more marsh farmers labored through Friday night and early Saturday morning with sandbags and shovels to hold back the flood waters in the marsh canals. The sudden thaw and rain of last week brought the highest water in over 17 years and had the flood risen another inch or two, the marsh would have been flooded with the loss of a season's crop. The flood call went out about midnight on Friday and by 3 a.m. farmers had gathered along the dikes in groups of 20 and 30 where the danger was at its height. Rows of sandbags were laid along the dike road at the danger spots and in one or two places where the water had actually flooded over the dikes, the sandbags were reinforced with earth. The peak of the flood came early Saturday and by Sunday, the water level had dropped two inches. Sunday night's rain was not heavy enough to threaten

Dr. D. B. Westcott Appointed Coroner

Newmarket—Dr. D. B. Westcott has been appointed coroner for York County succeeding Dr. L. W. Dales. Dr. Westcott came to Newmarket three years ago after serving four and a half years in the R.C.A.F. in Canada and overseas. He is a graduate of the University of Toronto.

The flood barriers although had there been rain Saturday, it is probable that despite the efforts throughout the night, the marsh would have been flooded.

Greatest hazard was the ice jam that formed at the north end of the canal, holding back the water from its free flow to the lake. Dynamite was used to break up the ice and a scoop shovel was used to crack the surface ice and set it flowing towards the lake.

Need For Co-operation In Health Stressed

Newmarket — At a regular meeting of the Home and School Association Miss Clara S. Kittmer, public health nurse, reviewed her work in Newmarket and told of how necessary the complete co-operation of parents and teachers is if an effective public health service is to be maintained.

Referring to the pre-school child as "the forgotten man of medicine," Miss Kittmer stressed the need of greater medical supervision of children from the age of one to six. "In 1,129 primary school children examined in the fall, 510 defects were found," she said. Attention was drawn to the pre-natal and post-natal services provided by the public health nurse, and Miss Kittmer stressed the need of 10 to 12 hours sleep nightly for all public school children if good health in adolescence was to result.

Father Dies In Warkworth

William J. Insley, father of Cliff R. Insley, Newmarket, passed away at the home of his eldest son, Harold, at Warkworth recently in his 86th year. He attended school each day until at the age of 13 he left to work in a woollen mill.

Mr. Insley married Deborah Dingman. He was a barber for years in Warkworth. Mrs. Insley predeceased him in 1904 and left a family of four for him to care for, the eldest being 13.

He was a member of the Warkworth Masonic Lodge and received a gold medal in 1941 for being 50 years a Mason. Until the past summer he has been able to care for his own home and garden by himself since retiring in 1921.

He is survived by his four children, Harold, Warkworth, Mabel, Toronto, Minnie, Hamilton, Clifford, Newmarket, and a third son, Edward, passed away a baby of three months, also by nine grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

York Farm Forums Have County Rally

Newmarket—Farm Radio Forum groups from all over the county met here Monday night for the first county-wide rally in the district. One hundred and thirty keen forum supporters packed the board room of the agricultural department of office on Botsford St. The roll-call showed forum representatives from Pefferlaw, Kleinburg, Roche's Point, Lasky, Victoria Square, Stouffville and Sharon. Some drove 40 miles to meet their fellow listeners in the largest discussion group in the world.

The usual Monday night radio broadcast constituted the first part of the program, and the subject, The Farmer and Income Tax, was thoroughly discussed afterwards. From the individual forums came a short report of their winter activities with some forums providing a highlight in the form of entertainment.

W. M. Cockburn, agricultural representative, welcomed the forums and then retired to make coffee. He wasn't seen holding either of the two babies that were present but was the assisting hand in everything else. Roland Keffer, Maple, was chairman and Mrs. Charles Grubbe, his daughter, acted as secretary.

On the question of marketing coarse grains, the assembled forums made it plain that they wanted it under a grain board and sent a resolution to that effect to the federal government in Ottawa. The Ontario Provincial Forum secretary, Clara Burt, addressed the rally telling of the great interest in the weekly reports and letters from the forums showed the Federation of Agriculture the trend of farmers' opinions. He urged everyone to rally to the forums and predicted that next year would see still more forums in action.

The county rally brought the 1947-48 season to a close with forum members wondering what they would do on Monday nights but resolved that next year would see more and better forums.

Newmarket — The 15 percent reduction in electric power ended Monday, March 22, according to a letter received by chairman of the hydro commission here, Fred Thompson, from the hydro-electric power commission of Ontario. As a result of the recent mild weather, the letter said, there has been a decided increase in the amount of water available for power generation in Southern Ontario.

The notice was given with the understanding that, should water conditions deteriorate or any other emergency arise, the allocation of power may again be necessary. Regulations that became effective November 10, 1947, restricting the use of power for certain purposes, still remain in effect.

Far From Goal In Red Cross Drive

Newmarket—With the end of the Red Cross campaign in sight, M. A. Patterson, campaign chairman, reports that returns so far are quite short of the objective of $4,000 for Newmarket and district. Canvassers have been active in Newmarket, but Mr. Patterson advised that if missed, a call to him at the Bank of Toronto, or a donation mailed to that address will reach the Red Cross fund.

The importance of the campaign this year is stressed by Red Cross officials who point out that the extent of the peacetime program of the Red Cross will be determined by the contributions made now. Included in the program of Red Cross activity is the establishment of new outpost hospitals in the frontier districts of Ontario, the establishment of a blood bank similar to that of wartime, and the enlarging of the scope of the work of mercy that the Red Cross carries on among victims of disaster and circumstances.

Mrs. W. R. Stephens, president of the Newmarket branch of the Red Cross, points out that much local work is enabled by Newmarket and district contributions. She cited an instance where the Newmarket Red Cross was called upon to provide fuel, food and shelter to a veteran and his family following a disastrous sickness which had cost the man his livelihood. "Government agencies provide assistance in such cases but it was the Red Cross that secured the family during the interval it took for the federal agencies to assume the care of the family."

Two-Mill Increase Seen For Aurora

Aurora—While it will not be decided until Monday, April 5, when council meets, it is generally expected by those with a knowledge of municipal affairs that Aurora taxpayers, like most urban residents in the county, will face a tax rate higher by at least two mills this year.

It is pointed out that already municipal expenditures are pretty well pegged before council receives them and that a one-mill grant for town planning, repairs to Aurora arena, a raise in municipal wages, increased cost of material and labor and a general increase in most departmental budgets will boost the mill rate. Last year the rate was 47 mills net to the taxpayer, the DREW government contributing one mill towards the general rate. The provincial government will again contribute and in addition will make a grant to road upkeep. A net mill rate of 49 or 50 mills can be expected for 1948.

Spring Came Saturday

Spring came Saturday, a day early by the calendar, but spring without a doubt. There was a press of baby carriages on Main St. in the warm sun and a boy hung over Davis Drive bridge watching the swift flow of the water over the old concrete of the canal. There was still water in the black furrows of the fields and swift water on the fields gouging its way towards the valleys.

The last snow retreated to the fence corners and the long lines of the snow fences stood without purpose. The fall wheat was touched with green and in hundreds of backyards, impatient gardeners looked for the first sign of spring flowers.

Spring came Saturday with the echo of the dynamite that was used to clear the ice dams on the rivers. The last scrape of the shovel was lost in the bright sun as the marsh farmers straightened up from the sandbags along the dikes and there was laughter as the danger of flooding passed. The Etobicoke floods and the high water on Brampton's main streets were forgotten in Saturday's hot sun.

The sparrows took on a new cockiness after huddling wanly under the eaves throughout the winter. Children saw their first robin and imitated his cheering voice, at first faltering, and then with growing confidence. The hoarse cry of the crow was heard over the fields as farmers checked their implements in readiness for the first plowing.

Spring was flying mud as the cars bucked the soft roads in the back concessions. In Newmarket cars were cleaned of their winter grease and polished to newness. Herb Gladman's license office was jammed with applicants for 1948 license plates and drivers' permits. Saturday was a day for rolling up sleeves and taking off ties and putting on bright colors.

But most of all, spring came on a day when there was at least a little time to enjoy this annual renewal of life, and to think about it and what it means, to soak up the warm sun and to share with all nature a quickening of the heart.

Come on spring, let's go; we're tired of ice and snow; the almanac says you're here, you know.

OTTAWA LETTER
by
"Jack" Smith, M.P.
North York

The troubled international situation continues to dominate the scene here at Ottawa. In one caucus we were privileged to hear a review of world affairs by the prime minister and in another to hear L. B. Pearson, under-secretary of state for external affairs. These men, along with Hon. L. S. St. Laurent, are the best informed in Canada on foreign affairs and their words were listened to with great interest. None can be called alarmists yet all confessed real concern over the present state of affairs in many parts of the world.

Following the Truman speech all parties here joined in a forceful denunciation of communism. Prime minister King said Canada would go all out in support of collective security pacts set up by United Nations.

Events of the past week at least have cleared the air. International affairs are from now on likely to be on a more frank and outspoken basis. Recent events have removed the cloak and revealed communism in its true light. Avowed communists are going to find the going a lot harder here and should have less support from those idealists who live in the clouds and defend their right to carry on their insidious propaganda. Communism is a real threat to the world and we must guard against any inroads here in Canada.

Readers will recall the criticism levelled at the government by the opposition for its disclosure of Soviet activity in Canada. During and after the spy trials government action was criticized severely and great claims were made for personal liberty and freedom. Time has vindicated the government's early action against communist activity and it was re-assuring to hear all political parties in the house unite in denouncing red activity. A Commoner in the Senate

History was made last week when transport minister Chevrier was the first non-senator to enter the upper house and discuss government legislation. There was some opposition to the innovation but in the main opinion seemed to favor the change in senate rules which made such procedure possible. Some in the senate may still question the move on constitutional grounds and further discussion may be expected.

The house adjourned Wednesday for the Easter recess. Next week I will be home in the riding and I will be happy to see any who have matters they wish to discuss with me.

HOW MUCH LONGER CAN WE IGNORE THEM?

Cat Nips

BY GINGER

Homer is no more! Henrietta's love life has been cut off.

The biological conundrum that has plagued Chazz nights, rests as a piece of unsolved mystery forgotten and buried for posterity.

Homer, as you know, is or was a skunk and the most recent boy friend of Henrietta, Chazz' cat with the so-called noble background. The outcome of this romance is what has worried Chazz for the last couple of weeks. He was wondering what form the offspring would take. Would they have a white stripe or a ring? Well, we'll never know.

No more overtures of love a la Homer will be whispered into the soft velvety ear of Henrietta Delrimple de Cadiz.

Yep, Homer got blowed up when they dynamited the ice jam down in the river, and one-half a skunk pelt tacked to the seventh telephone pole east of Schomberg is all that remains as a monument to the life of a romantic skunk.

It was a week ago Wednesday, in the morning, Junior and me left the office bound for the river at the north end, as Junior had to cover the blasting operations.

We met Cadiz and Homer at Queen and Main. They were sitting on a snowbank discussing the general trend in Newmarket architecture and its relationship to Renaissance art.

Henrietta departed to go and see what the stores had thrown out for her and the three of us went riverwards. We watched the blasting for an hour and were just about to leave when we noticed the absence of Homer. Junior spotted him first, down on a big pile of ice near the Davis Dr. bridge. He was reading a bill advertising Irish Night which was tacked on one of the telephone poles that had

"A cat may look at a king," said Alice. "I've read that in some book but I don't remember where."—Lewis Carroll.

From the corner of my eye I saw Bill Morning of Aurora push down the handle on that little box that sets off dynamite and it was too late. Junior got some fur in his eye and that's the last contact that was made with Homer.

Henrietta cried for a day but Chazz got sick in bed and her attention was turned on him. The last I saw of her, she was stretched out at the foot of his bed snoring like a buzz saw. I am not very worried about Henrietta.

Hey boss! I have sensed a change. Our old motto that was lost, "dignity at all times," seems to have been dug up again. The editorial staff is dressing better. Desks are neat. Floors clean. Windows not dirty.

Could it be, boss, that the added feminine touch to the staff could be the subtle influence? It pains me to think that an influence like this has such an effect. When I came on this here job, things were strictly masculine. I admit I organized a sort of neatness drive but I'm beginning to think I'd rather see cigar butt on the floor and coke bottles rolling around in drawers than have to go to this other extreme.

Junior doesn't chin himself on the door jam any more, but just sits there, at his desk officiously looking down his nose... Gib's stomach is where his chest used to be.

I tell you boss, we're losing the old atmosphere. To make it worse, that air conditioning furnace has taken away the blue cigaret haze that kept people from seeing in.

I'm afraid there's going to be a show down between me and that New Look over at the other desk. If office tradition goes,

Ginger goes. Let there be mellowness in this office. No high hat mannerisms here. Let there be the old character in our pattern of life. Ginger says, away with formality.

It is to be known that I have accepted the apologies of a certain nameless columnist who once classified me as a n.e.m.c. This columnist also appreciates the sympathetic understanding of that columnist's cats.

On Second Thought

By The Editor

The past week was perfect for the deliberations of the North End Chowder and Wading Association. Members had a busy week as melting snow and rain swelled the glorious Holland to flood proportions and the streets ran inches deep.

Members were able to pick up pointers on blasting as the dynamite squad descended on the ice jam around Davis Dr. and their experience will no doubt be of assistance on more localized operations around Queen St. No doubt it is a difficult time for mothers as they wring out the socks of the members of the North End Chowder and Wading Association, but spring comes only once a year and this is one of the trials the homemaker must accept as her lot. Kids love to wade and there is plenty of water — so that is about all there is to it.

We were rather disappointed this week. We had thought our son would be accepted as a "fully qualified wader with the title of "first class wader, rubber boots division," but he failed his test ignominiously. First he went bent under the legal depth and when the water poured into his rubber boots, he floated to the surface leaving the boots at the bottom. Salvage operations took a half hour. He might have passed anyway but on his second attempt, he stubbed his toe and went in headfirst. The examining committee voted unanimously to bar him for a least a year until he was surer of his footing.

However, he was accepted as a "matchstick floater, second class" and has the privilege of floating matchsticks and chips of wood on the streams of water that run down the gutters. We anticipate that he will soon have his first class ticket as he shows a marked ability along this line and the disgrace of having missed his wading test will soon be wiped out.

The March rains are enjoyed by ducks, romantic young men and women, and children. We have not interviewed the ducks but from the expression on their faces, we assume they are satisfied with the downpour. We know of the liking for rain of the romantic young men and women only by hearsay but the rumor came to us from a thoroughly reliable source and on the weekend was completely verified.

We can speak, however, of certainty with regards to the children. Friday morning, there were three of them huddled under an umbrella where the eavesdropping overhung the sidewalk on Main St. They were under the spout and shouting with laughter as the heavy drops splashed off their umbrella. We politely declined the invitation to join them but have regretted it ever since. Oh well, perhaps they will be there at lunchtime.

Coupples of Mount Albert assisted in the program with several musical numbers. Seven babies entered the baby contest conducted by Mrs. H. Morton assisted by Mrs. Raite of Mount Albert. Joan Taylor received first prize, Judith Cain second prize, and all entering received a small gift. Mrs. M. Rynard gave a short talk on her trip to California which she enjoyed last winter. Dental Hygiene As Practised Elsewhere

By Mrs. G. L. Boynton, Convenor of Health, Newmarket Home and School Association

Recently in Oakville a plan was submitted for a dental survey in the schools. At the organization meeting, Dr. S. A. McGregor, University of Toronto, told the group that every type of research in medicine has received endowments from many sources, but dentistry has never received anything worthwhile. He went on to say that if dental cavities had been contagious our problems would have been solved. Filling the cavities is not the solution, we must educate and have co-operation at home if we are to accomplish anything. I was more than interested in the article because it is a subject I have been familiar with for some time and feel we need in Canada.

The same problems of dental health education were being faced by an interested group of dentists and educators in Bridgeport, Conn., in 1913. Several plans were put forth among the establishment of clinics to do repair work on children's teeth, but that was not the goal—it was prevention. One of the men vitally interested in the work was Dr. Alfred Fones and his reaction to clinics was "trying to fill the teeth of all the school children is a noble charity but an endless chain. Instead of merely plugging a hole in a piece of ivory, suppose by some means, we could be taught how to prevent the re-occurrence of decay. The average dentist is too busy filling and extracting teeth to have much time left for the teaching of dental hygiene."

Question Studied

The question was thoroughly studied and finally the idea of the dental hygienist came into being. It was decided to start a school teaching the fundamentals of health with special emphasis on nutrition. Along with this the women were to be trained in a special branch of dentistry, prophylaxis or the cleaning and polishing of teeth with instruments.

There were four distinct parts to the system. First, the prophylactic treatment; second, tooth brush, drills and classroom talks; third, the showing of slides and lectures to the upper grades and fourth, educational work in the home by means of special literature for parents.

By 1926, when I entered the Rochester School of Dental Hygiene, the work of the dental hygienist in the maintenance of oral hygiene, was a recognized fact. Many states had adopted the work and government grants were provided to help local school boards obtain the services of the hygienist.

Our course consisted of lectures on all phases of health and covered subjects such as anatomy, physiology, dental hygiene, sterilization and nutrition. The afternoons were devoted to the study of instrumentation, the cleaning and polishing of teeth. Later we were sent to the various schools of the city to practice our art and finally to the Eastman Kodak factory for adult work.

Each Child Treated

Each child in the city of Rochester, N.Y., was able to have their teeth cleaned twice a year at no expense to their parents. This was done by a group of hygienists employed by the city as well as the students. After cleaning, the teeth were carefully checked and a chart made showing extractions, fillings or needed work. The child was given a card for their own dentist and if unable to afford the work, it was done at the dispensary. An orthodontia clinic was also maintained there for the straightening of teeth, the only fee being cost of materials.

Not only is this work carried on in the large cities but also in rural communities, for those who apply, by mobile groups who spend perhaps two days in one community or two weeks in another.

Many dentists, hospitals and even mental institutions have dental hygienists on their staff to help the work along.

Of course dental hygiene goes hand in hand with all other plans of good health and the school nurse works with the hygienist to maintain the highest standard of health possible.

Some of the universities of Canada have courses for dental nurses but they are not trained to do prophylactic work and do not have as broad a course. It would be a wonderful thing to have the course enlarged to take the other work in as they would be valuable in a dental health campaign in Canada.

People will say this sounds like an interesting idea, but it involves a lot of money, which is true, but thousands are spent on repair work. Could it not be used in a greater advantage in prevention?

Homemakers' Exchange

Ham and meals for Easter time go hand in hand, so this week we have three excellent ham recipes. The ham casserole dish forms the basis of a delicious supper. Serve with a crisp, green salad and follow up with a simple dessert; it will draw praise from all members of the family.

BAKED HAM

1 Smoked ham Glaze
Whole cloves
Have ham warmed to room temperature and bake as follows: Wipe ham with clean cloth. Wrap loosely in clean wrapping paper and place fat side up on rack of shallow pan. Do not cover pan or add water. Allow 15 minutes per pound for hams 12 pounds or over; 18 minutes per pound for hams under 12 pounds. Allow 22 minutes per pound for half hams. Bake in slow oven (300 degrees) until within 45 minutes of total baking time. Remove paper and rind from ham. Make a series of shallow cuts across fat to cut into squares or diamonds. Spread with desired glaze and insert one clove in each square of fat. Bake uncovered in 325 degrees oven for remaining 45 minutes.

SUGGESTED GLAZES

1 Cup brown sugar
1 Cup orange marmalade
1 Cup pineapple juice
1 Cup honey and 1 tsp. mustard
COOKED SLICE IN MILK
1 Tsp. dry mustard
1 Tsp. brown sugar
1 Slice ham (2 inches thick)
Milk
Mix mustard and brown sugar together and spread over ham. Place in casserole. Add enough milk to barely cover ham. Bake in slow oven (300 degrees) one hour. Centre slice of ham will serve six.

SCALLOPED HAM AND POTATOES

6 Potatoes
1 Pound raw smoked ham
3 Cups milk (or more)
1 Green pepper (may be omitted)
Flour
Cover bottom of an oiled baking dish with sliced, raw potatoes. Sprinkle with flour. Add inch-square pieces of ham. Repeat until dish is full. Pour in as much milk as dish will hold. Bake (350-400 degrees) until potatoes are tender - 1 to 1½ hours. Chopped green pepper adds to the flavor.

Guest cook of the week is Mrs. E. Pipher who sends this recipe:

BANANA CAKE

Cream until very soft ½ cup butter. Blend in gradually 1 cup granulated sugar. Cream until light and fluffy. Combine thoroughly with 1 egg well beaten. Add 1 cup mashed banana (about 3 medium-sized). Sift, then measure 2 cups Monarch pastry flour. Resift with 1 tsp. baking soda, ¼ tsp. cloves, ¼ tsp. cinnamon, 1 tsp. ginger, ½ tsp. salt. Place in sifter 1 cup broken walnuts. Sift dry ingredients through, thus coating the nuts. Add dry ingredients to first mixture alternately with ½ cup sour milk. Stir in before the last measure of dry ingredients 2 tps. vanilla. Mix in nuts. Bake in a well greased and floured eight-inch square pan in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 1 hour.

Remember to send your recipes to: The Homemaker, c/o Newmarket Era and Express, Newmarket, Ont. Next week: prune recipes.

Bill Mitchell County President

Newmarket — "Balanced Programs" was the theme for the York County Junior Farmers' Annual Meeting Thursday in the agricultural rooms. The meeting was an all-day affair and attended by an enthusiastic group of 60 juniors, from the seven local clubs of the county. The program was presided over by Bruce Snider of Maple, the county president, and Stewart Watson of Agincourt, the secretary-treasurer. Following a get-acquainted period featured by the teaching of the Junior Farmer theme song by Jean McGillivray of Vellore, a favorable financial statement was presented to the delegates and the remainder of the morning taken up with business, reports and nominations for the county executive after which all enjoyed a substantial lunch served by the St. Andrew's Women's Association. Highlight of this vitamin session was a sing song by records with various juniors conducting the tunes.

Following lunch, an address "Methods of Conducting Meetings" was given by N. C. Lindsay, supervisor, community programs, department of education. The topic was timely and received most favorably since the group consisted of juniors responsible for leadership and proper meeting procedure in their own local clubs. Projects of the locals and county were given thorough attention when the group divided into separate boys' and girls' sections. While the main discussion in the boys' group was centered on the guest speaker's remarks, the girls were concerned with reports from each club and club planning.

The elections were the last business to be conducted. The new county president is Bill Mitchell of Oak Ridge, popular director on the Vandorf executive. To the vice-presidency was elected another Vandorf member, Mrs. Peggy Moynihan.

Funeral services were held last Thursday for one of Aurora's most respected and best known residents, the late Daniel James "Dan" Webster of Fleury St. In his 71st year, he was a native of Aurora and attended Aurora schools. As a young man he was one of the community's best athletes, being especially prominent in lacrosse. For many years he was employed with J. Fleury & Son, later joining the staff of Office Specialty. He was employed with the head office of the Ontario Liquor Control Board at the time of his death. He had not been in good health the past year. For over 30 years Mr. Webster served as a member of the Aurora public school board, retiring undefeated in 1947. He had contributed much to the improvement of educational standards in Aurora, and his valedictory statement came out strongly in support of a new school for Aurora. For some years he was an active member of the Aurora Lawn Bowling club. He was a member of Aurora United church. He is survived by his widow, the former Eva Petch, a son Donald, of Ottawa, a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Bagshaw of Beaverton, and one sister, Mrs. John Scott. A brother, Charles, and a sister, Miss Kate Webster, predeceased him. The funeral service was from P. M. Thompson's Funeral Home with Rev. R. F. Hicks in charge. Interment was at Aurora cemetery.

HOLLAND LANDING

The Easter thank offering service of the Women's Association of the United church will be held in the Sunday-school room on Wednesday, March 31, at 2:45 o'clock. Rev. Hunter, Bradford, will give a talk on his work in India. Mr. Hunter will also present interesting pictures of his missionary work in India. All ladies are welcome.

Easter service will be held in the United church on Sunday afternoon at 2:45 p.m. Everyone welcome.

Good Friday service will be held in Christ church 11:15 a.m. and on Easter Sunday, 11 a.m., Canon C. E. Hudson, St. Alban's cathedral, England, will be the special preacher and celebrant.

Sunday night a Persian cat, the household pet of Mrs. A. Schubert, Holland Landing, was shot in Mrs. Schubert's backyard. The cat was a particular pet of the Schubert child and they miss it greatly. The person or persons responsible for such a wanton act undoubtedly qualify for the title of the "meanest in the village".

The crocodile will allow the African plover to walk unharmed in its big mouth.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

Everyone wants to be popular. But many of us make the mistake of thinking that popularity depends on having an attractive smile, an enthusiastic manner, and the ability to be a good mixer. While these things help, none of them is as important as being dependable — particularly in doing what you say you will do.

When people know that they can depend on you, it makes them feel secure. They think of you as a real friend to whom they can turn for help. So naturally they will like you better.

In your job, especially, dependability pays. So, among all the people you deal with in your work, try to build a reputation for dependability. Accept more responsibilities.

At home, too, you can cultivate dependability in matters that contribute to the family's welfare.

As you become known as a person whose word is as good as his bond you will find many people waiting to give you a warmer welcome!

Millions of Canadians know that they can depend confidently on their contracts with life insurance companies — contracts which provide financial protection in emergencies and retirement allowances for comfortable old age.

FARM BULLETIN

Many troubles associated with swine are directly due to old permanent pig lots, filthy hog houses and unsanitary feeding places, experts say. If you want your pigs to pay off in poundage, keep them clean, feed them properly, and protect them from extremes of weather.

Experimental farms have found that where pigs run a great deal in yards or lots these should be ploughed and seeded to a temporary pasture crop at least once a year. This reduces the losses among young pigs and improves their general health during the entire feeding period.

Your nearest experimental farm or agricultural college has a great deal of information on swine that you can use profitably. And it's yours for the asking, a service which many successful hog raisers find valuable.

The service of money is important, too. Farmers in Canada have obtained it, for 93 years, from this Bank. Farm Improvement Loans are part of this service. If you need one, we invite you to talk the matter over with our nearest manager.

Young Hopefuls

Dwayne, eight years old, is an accomplished liar, according to his own mother. It seems there has been a strict rule enforced regarding the time Dwayne is to be home from school each afternoon. Last year Dwayne was late quite frequently with no good excuses. He endured verbal reprimands, body punishments, family disgrace and loss of privileges—some form of discipline after each offence.

This year Dwayne took a special liking for his teacher and quite often helped her after school. Sometimes he cleaned the blackboards, sometimes he helped decorate them, etc. Dwayne's parents were happy to think their son was on such friendly terms with the teacher and was taking a new interest in school.

However, when the teacher started keeping Dwayne half the noon hour, mother thought that was carrying things a little too far. Mother visited the teacher and learned the truth. The pity of it is that she hadn't visited her months ago.

Not once during the previous six months had Dwayne stayed after school to help the teacher. He had originated the idea originally to avoid punishment at home. The idea worked so well, he made a practice of it—just varying his story and adding points of human interest regarding his conversations with his teacher.

Too often children are practically forced to be deceitful. Discipline that has that effect is definitely wrong. The idea of discipline is not to make the child afraid, but to help him want to do the right thing.

We never, never force anyone to do anything important that they don't want to do. Remembering that, we must help them to do what we want them to do if we expect to lead them.

Some congenial arrangement must be arrived at as respects the nature and intensity of punishment—whether administered by parent or teacher. It is most important that the child feels he deserves the punishment.

IT WASN'T MUTUAL

The late John Barrymore was out walking one afternoon, when he saw a certain notorious snob approaching. He tried to avoid the man, but the other singled him out with the hearty greeting: "Good afternoon, Barrymore. You are positively the only person I've met today worth stopping to speak to."

"Really?" rejoined Barrymore. "Then you're more fortunate than I am."

The Common Round...

By Isabel Inglis Colville

HART HOUSE

Monday evening, March 15, was a memorable one to this half of the Colville family. Through the day, at intervals, I stared at the window and hoped that by evening the rain would cease and the fog lift, and all be well for our trip to Hart House. But the rain didn't stop and the fog didn't lift and so, after settling the other half of the family, who is convalescing after pneumonia, with books and radio, Mrs. McClure and I journeyed into town in a nice steady rain.

In our hopeful ignorance we turned for consolation to the weatherman who had said, in a delightfully positive voice, that it would clear by evening, and when after a game of hide and seek round the market square, we joined Mr. and Mrs. Jackson and Golden Glow to proceed to Toronto, we had no idea of how really bad the night was.

The car moved along through a sort of yellow wool, through which at intervals one caught a glimpse of a telephone pole or a light. It was a weird and ghostly experience but thanks to good driving we reached Hart House and in the light and warmth and beauty of that lovely little theatre we forgot perils past and thought only of pleasures present.

Mr. E. Humphreys introduced the Lieutenant-Governor, who voiced his pleasure in declaring the festival open. The first play, presented by the Koenig Players was "The Ring of General Macias"—a drama of the Mexican Revolution.

There were five characters and of these, I see by my notes, I felt that only two rose to the height demanded by the script. The play gave a chance for great acting but was certainly not pleasant. The setting, a Mexican drawing room furnished beautifully in period style, made a fine setting and the lighting was good. The principal character, the wife of General Macias, was good but one felt there were depths and heights she could never reach, and both the Revolutionary Captain and the Federal Captain were most unconvincing, especially where Senora Macias poisons the Revolutionary Captain and his servant. I do not think amateurs should ever attempt death scenes. The General's wife and the Revolutionary Captain's servant gave the most convincing performance and even they fell short of being entirely convincing.

The next play, "Without Benefit of Roof," was presented by the Playwrights Studio Group and was a present day problem play. Seven players took part and the setting was a modern living-room. The lighting was too glaring, I thought, but the general effect pleasant. But one sensed, as we were supposed to sense, the strain that pervaded the room where a young husband and wife were trying to adapt themselves to living with in-laws.

The young wife was at the breaking point—ready to leave her husband and go back to work. The husband said he had lived with these people for 24 years and why couldn't she? But all this didn't console the young wife, until the daughter of the house came in saying she had broken her engagement because she couldn't live with her husband's people after seeing her brother and his wife. She told the two who were going to separate that they were not the only ones to suffer. "Look at Father and Mother," said she, "put out of their own living-room. 'Non-sense,' they told her, 'Dad and Mother went to the show.' They did not, they are walking the streets to give you two a little time alone."

And so, with a better mutual understanding and co-operation, came the strength to overcome the too close association, the persistent cheerfulness and peace-making of the mother and the outbursts of the father, and the intrusion into their private affairs of the other members of the family. The four principal parts were well taken and a phase of modern living, only too prevalent in this day and age, was given an airing and a potential solution.

Then came the play. We Newmarket people had been eagerly waiting "Heaven on Earth." The pleasant living-room was there, with mother and daughter discussing the merits of the conventional and unconventional ways of life which the daughter was determined to follow, in company with her lover. The dictates of freedom were chosen, instead of the more generally accepted code.

The daughter cannot understand why her mother is not more horror stricken as she tells her that she is going away with her lover but not marrying him!

Little does she guess the deep plot of Father and Mother to sicken her of his plan as they themselves seemingly adopt it for their own use. Adrian's startling advents and grandiose sentiments seem wonderful to her at first, but when she sees how they destroy her deepest faiths, the feeling of that the very foundations of her world are crumbling if Father and Mother are not what she deemed them, then she bids him go and turns to face her shattered world, only to find that Father and Mother had acted out a comedy to show her just what Adrian stood for and then to give her back her faith in things as they ought to be.

The lighting was pleasing, the continuity good and the parts of the father and mother played by Vera Brown and F. D. L. Stewart, were, to my mind, taken in a way that professional actors might have envied. Adrian too, played a difficult and not pleasant part with skill and restraint which, I think, called for real artistry. Jill, who is young in acting could perhaps have let herself go more. One felt, if her convictions had been deeper, her reaction would have been more expressive, but time will take care of that. Ellen, the maid, was good.

Now, I have written of these three plays as I saw them. Then comes the adjudicator. I'm spelling him with a small "a". That's the way I felt about him.

Previous to his appearance, Mr. Humphreys and Mr. Justice Dalton Wells spoke of the aims of these festivals and the dramatic clubs which participate, and they stressed the fact that they are for the encouragement of drama. They hoped to have many more clubs in many more centres organize and carry on. With these thoughts in mind, we waited for the adjudicator, who presently appeared and we waited for his words of wisdom. One of the few things he said with which I heartily agreed, was that all adjudicators should pop out of a hole in the ground, give his verdict, and pop in again.

I never encountered anyone less likely to rouse enthusiasm in the hearts of amateur actors. He sort of flayed them with a smile and his few commendations came as such surprises that one almost passed them over in the rather biting criticism which flowed over us. Where was the encouragement which was to lift the morale of the players? I, in my simplicity, thought the criticism should be constructive, but I found I had much to learn.

About the first play, he said the lighting was good, but the tempo too slow. Of the actors, the General's wife and the servant, Cleto, were the only two who really lived the parts and the lady only rose to the climax. The rest was motionless and the men were not convincing. In the second play, the lighting was too glaring, but the timing was good, and he said the young, nagging wife introduced enough variety into expression and action to keep up the interest.

The father, he said, was excellent, the mother good, but a little too subdued, the uncle very improbable and the young son poor. The daughter was not alive enough to be very convincing, but on the whole, very fair. The third play, he said, should not have been performed in 1948. What difference should I make, I don't know. I thought it was the way the play was put over which counted. He said that era was passed. If that was so, what of the Mexican Revolution?

He said the lighting was pleasing and the tempo fair. The father and mother as well done as the disadvantage of the play would allow. He said Adrian should not have been so whole-some looking. This, I thought, was absurd as he was supposed to live in close touch with nature. He didn't think Jill put enough of herself into it.

Now, in my humble opinion, a play is to give people pleasure and amusement and instruction. In the third play, Newmarket gave pleasure and amusement and also something to think of. All this has shown by the frequent bursts of applause and laughter. Will someone enlighten me? Are plays for the audience or the adjudicator, pray tell me which.

Since writing the above, I found that in the final adjudication on Saturday night, Mr. Stuart, the adjudicator, gave much deserved praise to Mrs. Brown and Mr. Stewart, which in my opinion should have been extended to Mr. Struthers.

KESWICK

Mrs. Wm. Holborn and John Holborn, Mrs. Connell Marritt and Miss Eva Gilroy attended the funeral of Rev. Chantler in Toronto on Monday. Rev. Chantler was on his circuit of the Methodist church early in his ministry and married Hannah Connell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Connell, Keswick, who died some years ago. He was in his 82nd year.

Mr. Vernon Rye was at home from his studies in Toronto for the weekend. Mrs. Rye and daughter are spending the winter with Mrs. Rye's parents in Kitchener.

The quick disappearance of the snow has meant many flooded cellars but the ground is drying quickly and the robins are here so spring is surely here to stay.

Judge and Mrs. Brock Currey, Gore Bay, Manitoulin Is., spent Sunday in Toronto with Mr. and Mrs. Art Pollock.

On March 11 Mrs. Ralph Henry opened her home for the miscellaneous shower for the annual bazaar of Keswick United church, which will be held in July. There was a large crowd of the W.A. ladies present.

The articles contributed were beautiful and plentiful. Plans were laid for the church supper on April 14 at which the Lever Bros. will present their "Pageant of Fashions," which should prove highly entertaining.

The president, Mrs. Francis Morton, gave an interesting synopsis of the talk given by Mrs. Aitken which brought home to us all afresh the terrific circumstances of Europe.

For appeal for help for "Aid the Children Fund" was met by a generous offering from everyone present amounting to nearly $40 and along with an extra $25 was all donated to the fund.

Anyone still wishing to contribute may do so by sending it to Mrs. Percy Mahoney. A lovely lunch and a vote of thanks to Mrs. Henry concluded an especially happy afternoon.

BELHAVEN

Gray Coach makes daily trips through Belhaven now owing to the condition of roads on the Lakeshore. This will enable some county residents to attend Good Friday service of worship at 7.30 on that day, in Keswick United church, also the Sunday morning and evening services at the same place. In the evening a special musical treat in the form of the English recording of part Two of Handel's "Messiah" is in store for a full church.

Mr. O. Willoughby has been suffering from a severe cold, also Miss Winnie. We hope to see them soon.

Mr. Walter Kidd had the buzz-saw out on Monday. Mrs. Kidd has been suffering from "flu."

Miss Glenna Nelson is home again after spending some time with friends in Stouffville.

The Belhaven public scholars are to be congratulated for their sweet music last Sunday morning in Keswick United church, also their efficient leader, Mrs. A. Cowieson. The same Belhaven scholars are to sing next Sunday in Bethel United church.

SCHOMBERG

Master Bryan Beatty, Kettleby, spent the weekend with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. K. Leonard.

Mr. James Duggan has purchased the house and lot formerly owned by the late F. McCollum on Main St.

The sudden death of Mr. Wesley Wood shocked the community on Saturday evening. He had gone into his silo to get some ensilage when the ice around the edge fell on him. We wish to extend our sympathy to the sorrowing widow and family.

Flyers Lose First Game To Ganonoque

Trot out that big brass band from Barrie neighbors, for Aurora Flyers are on the wing, and have their sights trained on the 1948 junior "C" championship. By virtue of a brilliant 3-1 win before 1,500 roaring fans at Barrie arena on Saturday afternoon the Aurora kids sent the class Midland Huskies into the land of limbo, and now meet Ganonoque, the pick of Eastern Ontario, for the right to proceed into the final series. Flyers played in Belleville last night, and tomorrow night will meet the Easterners in the second game at Oshawa arena.

Ganonoque defeated the Flyers 8-6 at Belleville last night in the first game of a two-of-three series.

Displaying their best hockey of the season on Saturday, Flyers left no doubt as to their superiority over Fawcett's team, losing the first game in Midland 5-3 in overtime last week, the Flyers roared back to even-Stephen with a 4-2 victory at Aurora on Thursday, and Saturday's contest was the acid test for speed, stamina, and team-play.

There wasn't a weak link in Coach Bill Capel's chain. All played their hearts out. Sparking the Aurora play in both wins over Midland was right-winger Norman Nigh, one of the year's most underrated players. At Aurora, it was Normie who started Flyers on the victory trail, and at Barrie the sorrell-thatched speedster scored the goal that "broke the camel's back" as he grabbed Ron Simmons' pass with Aurora playing two men short, outplayed the Midland defenders and deposited the rubber in the net after feinting goalie Clarence Gagnon out of position. Nigh also put on a display of checking that was a treat to watch. The ever reliable Ron Simmons was easily the shiftest player on the ice during the series and while he failed to score a single goal in either game, he saw more actual action than any player on either team outside the netminders. "Long Jawn" Andrews, Bill Wilkinson, Bill Attridge, "Scotty" McGhee, all gave their finest displays of the year at the right time. Goalie Eric Smith was as steady as a rock throughout and made many fine saves with finesse and dispatch. As we've said previously, all played well, and the running commentary on each game finds kudos for the entire team.

Make no mistake about it, the

ON THE ALLEYS

BY PIN-BOY

It was low team week in the men's town league as the Bankers took 3 points from the Specialty, Geer and Byers took 4 from Bowser's and International Wood took 3 from the Clover Kickers. Denne's boys held Dixon's to 2 points. Frank Courtney's boys are red hot this year and should be a big threat in the play-offs. M. Wesley was high man of the week with 710 and 305 high single. F. Dillman 689 (256), Sine 685 (272) and O. Hisey 674 (246).

Ho for Thelma "Speedball" Patterson who got the high single of 321 in the Thursday night girls' league. Olive Hughes bowled 155, 177, 280 for 612. Hazel Bennett again 209, 161, 146 for 516.

We figure we might as well make a standing type head for the Sangamo League with Will Jarvis' name first. He bowled high this week 674 (304). Ivan Burke 552 (249). Mrs. Walthe 455 (155) and Helen Burke 455 (187).

High man in the Davis Leather league is J. Attwell with 326, 181, 148 for 655 this week. A. Bennington followed with 300, 151, 181 for 632. G. Smart 192, 300, 138 for 620.

Midland youngsters were no pushovers. Probably the most outstanding players of the entire series on either team was goalie Gagnon, who was a substitute for the Huskies most of the year. The 17-year-old custodian was sensational at all times and there wasn't a weak sally scored against him. He lived a nightmare in the Midland cage as Flyers buzzed about and but for his work the Huskies would not have kept in the fight. Outweighed by Flyers, the Midland team gave a game display, and the clean, vigorous thumping Aurora neatly handed out in both of the final games took their toll. Bud and Babe Deschamps, the Henderson brothers, Don Simpson, Garnet Armstrong had an edge on their fellows.

Eric Smith was chaired by his mates and carried off the ice by his buddies after the Barrie game.

SALVOS AND SALUTATIONS

One more river to cross and Aurora Flyers will be knocking on the door for O.H.A. honors in the C series, thus emulating the feat of Consols of 1938 and 1939 fame. The hurdle is Ganonoque and as a matter of fact little is actually known about the opposition, except by way of report via carrier pigeon. The Easterners have been building up a homebrew squad for the same length of time as Aurora, and as a matter of fact, two years ago they were listed as opposition for Aurora in the midjet series but dropped out. Last year they were able to give Victoria Square a real run for their money and this season after taking their own group, they popped over Lindsay midjets in three games. Midjets were touted by referee Harry Morrison as being able to take any team in the local group and they couldn't stop the Ganonoque team. It's nearly three weeks, however, since they have had a game and Aurora, fortunately, is coming out of a tough series in good shape, mentally and physically, and with confidence in their ability to come from behind. We look forward to a dandy series, but Flyers should be able to more than hold their own. Keep your fingers crossed. The finalist opposition will come from Goderich or Thorold and you'll be able to gauge the chance fairly accurately for the Thorold team is practically the same as the one Aurora defeated in the midjet finals.

Orchids to the entire Flyers squad for their showing against Midland. At Barrie even Victoria Square would have had their hands full to hold them. One of these days Bill Boychhoff is going to hit his early season stride again and if he does Flyers will be really dangerous. Bill, for some reason or other, while playing useful hockey, has lacked that certain something that made him a ball of fire last year and early this season. It took a bit of pondering to drop a boy as good as Tommy Brodie for the last two games. He was the team's second high scorer over the season and one of the three stars of the first game for Aurora. Coach Capel benched Tommy to strengthen his defensive forces via the back-checking route. The team wasn't weakened either, which speaks well for the reserve strength. We hope Brodie will get his chance to shine again before the season is over for he is a mighty sweet little player when he bears down. Keith Kyle, reserve netminder and winner of the Gar Doolittle memorial trophy at Aurora high school, is probably lost to district sports for some months, if not for good. Keith suffered a heart attack unexpectedly at his home and is still under doctor's attention. The fans will be pulling for the popular Kyle to make a full recovery.

Well, regardless of what may happen from here in, the Aurora lads (and all but Boychhoff, Brinkos and Hoppers are homebrews), have done themselves proud. They are bumping the opposition around now, something they failed to do most of the year, and the experiment in line changes which looked so disastrous at one stage, is beginning to click. Playing their last season in junior company are goalie Eric Smith, defencemen captain Loring Doolittle and Mike Brinkos, forwards Howard Patrick, Norm Nigh and Dave Hopper. Junior A scouts have tabbed at least three of the rest for trials next season, so that the club will to all intents and purposes be playing its last year as a unit. You can guess the will to win is pretty strong under those circumstances. The wheel of fortune spins and where she stops nobody knows. Hand me down that crystal ball, Swami!

Aurora Flyers League Statistics

Bill Holloway, official statistician of Aurora Flyers, has released the following figures showing the club's record over the season. Ron Simmons, smart young pivot player, leads the club in scoring with a total of 54 scoring points in 20 games. Simmons leads in the goals scored with 33, with Tommy Brodie as runner-up with 26. Bill "Hardrock" Boychhoff leads with assists having given 22 "Cow-boys." Simmons follows with 21. Boychhoff also leads in the penalty parade with a total of 51 minutes. Eight major penalties were received by Aurora players over the season.

The team averaged 7.5 goals per game and a total of 299 minutes in penalties meant almost 15 minutes each game short-handed. Sixty-nine goals were scored against Flyers in the 20 O.H.A. games played, with a total of 15 wins and five losses. Victoria Square is the only club to have an edge.
